CARE AND MAINTENANCE

Properly maintained stainless steel provides lustre, strength and durability.

In most applications, stainless steel will not rust or stain. However, when stainless steel comes in contact with chloride salts, sulphides or other rusting metals, it can discolour or even rust and corrode.

To maintain beauty and function of the stainless steel for years to come:

- Clean stainless steel with soap and water
- Never use mineral acids, bleaches or coarse abrasives
- Always remove stain or rust spots as soon as possible with either soap and water or a stainless steel cleaner
